New Industrial Building in Davie County

Mocksville, NC – October 16, 2009 - The Hollingsworth Companies have completed a new, virtually complete industrial building in Mocksville. With a minimum clear height of 32', wide column spacing and green features such as energy efficient fluorescent lighting, the structure is at a level of readiness for nearly immediate occupancy by any manufacturing or logistics company seeking to grow or expand into North Carolina.

The new 108,480 square foot industrial building is located at the SouthPoint Business Park just off of Interstate-40 in Mocksville. "Despite the recession, Davie County is poised for growth," said Chip Sisk, Industrial Real Estate Director. "Earlier this month there was a major food processing announcement. Companies from larger cities and other regions are attracted by our pro-business government, labor-rich environment and proximity to several interstates. Davie County is a place where businesses can lower their costs and prosper."

The Hollingsworth Companies, based in Clinton, Tennessee, have developed over fifteen million square feet of industrial space in the southeast and over two million square feet in North Carolina alone. In 2006, Hollingsworth was named by Southern Business and Development as one of the largest southeastern-based industrial developers. A sister real estate company, Hollingsworth Capital Partners, was listed as the 12th fastest growing American company in Inc. Magazine's September 2008 issue.
